Uniting the Industry
Against AIDS

A partnership between the gift and home industries to raise funds across the U.S. in support of HIV/AIDS service and education programs.

Gift for Life was founded in 1992 by a small group of industry professionals compelled to respond to the tragic loss of talented friends and colleagues to AIDS.

Since then, our volunteer group has grown and gained significant visibility while raising more than $5 million for life-saving HIV/AIDS service and education programs.

Today, Gift for Life is led by more than 30 industry volunteers from sales, manufacturing, trade media, and trade event organizations. Our mission remains vitally important; every 15 minutes someone in the U.S. is diagnosed with HIV/AIDS.

Our most effective tool is fundraising on behalf of DIFFA, the Design Industries Foundation Fighting AIDS. Every dollar raised by Gift for Life benefits DIFFA and its community services around the country.

Gift for Life Activities include:

- The annual Party for Life, held during the winter edition of NY NOW and honoring key industry leaders.
- Fundraising events in New York, Las Vegas, Los Angeles, Seattle, and Dallas, as well as the Gift & Home Trade Association's annual golf outing.
- A Gift for Life Industry Achievement Award, presented each year during the Retailer Excellence Awards.
- Partnership with the National Stationery Show to participate in AIDS Walk NY.
- Partnership marketing programs with UMBRA, Global Views and Kurt S. Adler Inc.

As a result of its fundraising efforts, Gift for Life helps to support great local causes such as Chicago's Horizon Hospice, Los Angeles' Project Angel Food, the Community Foundation for Greater Atlanta, the Heart of America Community AIDS Partnership in Kansas City, and the National AIDS Housing Coalition.

We invite you to make a difference. Learn more. Participate. Donate.

ABOUT THE COVER

The covers of the LA Mart Directories are dedications to the many unique elements of Los Angeles and the state of California that give them true character. This cycle, the LA Mart pays tribute to the expanse of Art Deco architecture that is so prominent in the Downtown area.

First introduced to the world at the Paris Exposition Internationale des Arts Décoratifs et Industriels Modernes in 1925, the Art Deco style quickly surged into the plans of architects and onto facades everywhere.

Bevis Hillier, an English art historian, referred to Art Deco as “an assertively modern style [that] ran to symmetry rather than asymmetry, and to the rectilinear rather than the curvilinear; it responded to the demands of the machine and of new material [and] the requirements of mass production.”

Classified by its intense colors, ornate decorative elements, and its disposition toward the geometric, LA’s Art Deco architecture was standout amongst the styles that were commonplace on the facades of many of pre-World War buildings in the area at the time.

An abundance of original Art Deco buildings can still be found all across Los Angeles, paying homage to the city’s sparkling classic movie- and theatre-going era, when the city’s economy experienced an enormous boom, and when the popularity and enormous success of Hollywood caused the city to explode into a worldwide phenomenon.

The LA Conservancy offers Downtown LA Art Deco Walking Tours every Saturday morning at 10AM.

One-of-a-Kind

Senior Vice President
& General Manager of LA Mart Frank Joens on being Uniquely California

Let's get right down to it: why California?

LA—and SoCal itself—is really one of the most unique regions in the country: it is a cross of extremely successful wholesale districts, highly individualized artists and creative people, along with some of the biggest business minds in the United States. The combination of that creates an immensely productive wholesale business area with a huge influx of artists and artists' ideas. The LA Mart is the epicenter of that, and it is located right in the most up-and-coming area of Downtown Los Angeles.

Why exactly is the LA Mart's location (Downtown LA) so special?

In the 30s, 40s, and some of the 50s, DTLA's Broadway was akin to the theater district in New York. Admittedly, the area then went through a dip, and until recently hadn't really been much of a destination at all. However, Downtown LA has gone through a massive renaissance in the last several years. Whereas people used to come to LA to go to Hollywood, Beverly Hills, or the beach (and of course, they still do), they now head to Downtown just as regularly. There are so many fun, interesting, cultural things to do here; it is really an awesome destination. Downtown LA now is not just a place to come for the day; it's a place to stay, a place to wander around, to rediscover history, to discover new additions, to have some absolutely amazing food, to get to enjoy our incredible weather...and, of course, to shop the LA Mart!

Is this Downtown renaissance a part of The REEF's—and thus the LA Mart's—recent makeover?

Certainly. South Park is going to be the new name of our neighborhood's area here, and it's untapped, really important land. The LA Mart is here in the heart of the DTLA manufacturing industry, and that's manufacturing for clothing, furniture, you name it. With the USC campus being so close and the Los Angeles Trade Tech next door; the widespread restoration of historic buildings and the construction of brand new buildings; as well as more residencies just exploding, we're in a really awesome location.

The LA Mart and The REEF as a whole are leading that charge, so it's very exciting. Now you've got Maker City LA, which is really the creative piece that's going on; you have the Gift and Home showrooms; you have the design center; you have Magic Box constantly hosting live creative events. The REEF building is now this amazing conglomeration of all sorts of people and activities. It's bustling; people are here, events are here, and because of that, people are discovering more and more about the LA Mart.

Amongst all components of The REEF (LA Mart, Maker City LA, and Magic Box), there seems to be a large influence of fashion. How does this tie into Markets?

The fashion world dictates most of what happens in all product-creation. We all know that couture fashion starts in Paris and New York, but street fashion starts in Los Angeles. For many years its roots have begun in LA, and from that comes color palettes, styles, and designs, which is in direct correlation to influencing giftware and furniture design. Everything comes out of the fashion world. We are truly trendsetters in Los Angeles with street fashion, which means we're on the ground here at the LA Mart with the latest innovations in gift, decor, home, and everything else.

How many showrooms are in the building, and how many product lines are available here?

Approximately 130–140 individual showrooms are in the building at any given time, and that works out to anywhere from 8,000–10,000 lines. When you add the abundance of the LA Mart to Maker City LA's inhabitants and the traffic from all the trade shows that come in through Magic Box, the building becomes this amazing creative habitat, with all sorts of people from all sides of the spectrum of the creative world. And this is just the beginning.

How does the Market at the LA Mart differ from all the others?

We are the largest gift and home and design center mart throughout the Western states, and we have the largest amount of lines, gift showrooms, and buyer attendance. We are without a doubt the go-to place for the Western half of the United States.

We continue to offer a huge selection of California-based products that buyers simply can't find anywhere else. That's what stores want: they want to look different and unique, and that's really where the LA Mart steps in. We also host all sorts of events to make Market days really fun. You can buy product anywhere, but it's that amazing, uniquely LA experience that you truly want, and one that you get when you're here at the LA Mart.

What can someone attending an LA Mart Market expect?

The thing about the LA Mart that's so unique is, again, both its location and the people inside of it. The relationships that our building houses, including our management team, our showrooms, and all of our visitors and patrons alike, has come to create a culture that is really accommodating. We're a super easy building to get to (very freeway-accessible), an easy building to park at (steps away from the front door, and free on Market days!), and then once you get in, we are simply unique like no other. When you come to Markets at the LA Mart, you feel like you belong here, that you're at a completely one-of-a-kind Market, and that you're really welcomed here. We know it's this kind of experience that brings people back.

What are some special elements of Market days at the LA Mart?

It's a place not just to come, but to see and be seen; the LA Mart is not just a place to find and buy unique, great products, but to also network like crazy. That personal touch is really important, and again, it really is that family feel here all around. There are those buyers that say "I never get to see my fellow buyers that are right down the street, except for at Market." It's here that they are able to exchange ideas, and it's wonderful for them to run into those people that they've met or known over the years. And due to the unique makeup of the building, we also have people coming through here regularly who are working toward having a showroom in the future, or who will become designers who come here to shop or to create a line that would go in a showroom.

Market here is just chock full of resources on all levels. So it's truly that networking, that exchange of ideas that is important, and is one of the reasons that we do Markets and Market events in the building. It's an important time to just get your hands on an abundance of unique items, but also to sip a glass of wine and to catch up with your compadres and continue the conversation well beyond the event dates themselves.

What is "How the West is ONE"?

There are three wholesale venues that are in DTLA: LA Mart, CalMart, and the California Gift Show. "How the West is ONE" unites these venues to make the shopping experience easy with shuttles that go back and forth to three different Market venues, and one entry badge that works for all of them. What that's created is the biggest market and the most offerings anywhere throughout the Western states. You get the influence of three markets in one location, who are all within a short, free shuttle ride from one another, and who are all working together. It's seamless, and an enormous opportunity to explore LA's expanse of products and community.

What are you trying to create at the LA Mart looking into the future?

I think what's really important is that we cement the confidence of the buying community, that the LA experience is a productive one, one that is enjoyable, and one that offers them all the resources that they need.

Now that all three LA Markets are acting as one, we're creating a broader sense of community both in DTLA and in LA in general. Many of our showrooms really search for California-made products and Los Angeles-made products because we've been here for 56 years supporting the Downtown community and the LA community, and we want to continue to do that. It's a very special, very unique experience here, and it's going to continue to be that way, and thankfully it's getting bigger and better.

When it really comes down to it, we are smack dab in the heart of the second largest city in the nation; we have 15.5 million people within 90 minutes' driving time to the LA Mart; we're the 8th largest economy in the world behind Italy. It's incredible. LA is really the one to watch at this point in time. We are the movers and the shakers. Trends start here; ideas start here; and the rest of the country catches up eventually. We've definitely been seeing this more and more in recent years. We're going up and up; we're on an incredible trajectory. And there's more to come. •

GOOD IS IN THE DETAILS.

ACE HOTEL DOWNTOWN LOS ANGELES

DTLA

Downtown LA, home of the LA Mart, has been going through a massive renaissance in recent years. From the influx of major building projects, new restaurants, hotels, public spaces, and galleries, to the rapidly increasing population of residents and visitors to the area, the extensive revival of DTLA has become quite clear. Read some of the latest buzz surrounding this incredible urban turnaround.

“There was a time not so long ago...when the clock would strike 5:00p.m. and Downtown L.A. would quickly empty out. Not many people lived there, no night-life, and lots of crime. But oh what a difference a decade can make. The last ten years have seen an explosion of positive development downtown, where some 50-thousand people are now living and eating and shopping.”

Downtown LA's Renaissance,
Fox LA

“Downtown had it rough for a few years. However, unlike some communities, construction here never actually ground to a standstill. Things always managed to inch forward. Now the pace has picked up. The area is booming, and things should continue this way for a while.”

Downtown Boomtown,
LA Downtown News

“For decades, Downtown has been the dark center of L.A.: a wasteland of half-empty office buildings and fully empty streets. But amid the glittering towers and crumbly Art Deco facades, a new generation of adventurous chefs, bartenders, loft dwellers, artists, and developers are creating a neighborhood as electrifying and gritty as New York in the ‘70s.”

America’s Next Great City Is Inside L.A., GQ

A reawakening Downtown: LA’s downtown is in the middle of a renaissance—and you can see it in the cranes rising from the skyline—from Eli Broad’s $140 million art museum, to downtown’s first Whole Foods, to new condos and apartments, to the new Target, more hotels, and a $160 million renovation of Macy’s Plaza. There’s a major Western milestone coming—LA’s first new office tower in nearly 25 years. The 73-story $1.1 billion investment in LA is the new Wilshire Grand Hotel and office tower. It will employ 11,500 workers during construction and will be the tallest building west of Chicago. City National’s Plaza’s 104 floors are now more than 90% full; (it was half empty 10 years ago). In fact this month’s GQ Magazine described LA as the “coolest new downtown city in America.”

Los Angeles: On the Way Up, The Huffington Post

“Right now, Downtown is like Brooklyn, but that’s going to change. This is going to be Manhattan. And all the outlying areas, the rest of Los Angeles, that’s going to be the boroughs. I don’t have a doubt in my mind.”

Cedd Moses, Developer;
Member of Board of Directors,
Los Angeles Conservancy

WHAT IS THE REEF?

The REEF is the new name of the LA Mart building, which has evolved from a solely wholesale operation to a more diversified creative habitat that also supports the design, creation, and exhibition of new products and ideas. The REEF brings together three distinct yet symbiotic communities: the LA Mart wholesale showrooms and design center, the Maker City LA creative and production spaces, and the Magic Box exhibition spaces, which host a variety of trade shows and events.
